

Grasping Japanese Working Value Systems and Their Differences with Us

~Understanding the "Differences" make working with Japanese more enjoyable ~

Local employees in Japanese companies are often confused or bewildered by the unique Japanese business manners and the differences in their background, environment, culture, and education. Due to these differences, it is often difficult for the Japanese and the locals to reach to a common agreement and/or understanding.

Through this training, participants will gain an understanding of what these “differences” are and how they come about. Based on these, participants will be able to grasp and learn the working style in Japanese companies, as well as improving communications within the company.

Contents Cross cultural understanding Japanese Business etiquette, habits and values

Work style understanding: 5S, PDCA, Horenso (報連相)
